

Lomba Blog Ramadhan

Written by yons achmad

Tuesday, 11 August 2009 04:38 -

Kesempatan untuk jadi blogger yang go internasional, Ada yang berminat?

Believing that Muslim culture is rich, diversified, and inspired by Muslims' writings and thoughts, Art & Culture Page Islamonline.net is launching "Blogging Ramadan" Competition.

Blogging Ramadan is fashioned to be a platform for Muslims to participate with their reflections on the meaning of Ramadan and how they celebrate it in the light of their cultures' diversity.

Blogging Ramadan aims:

- To introduce the participants' blog posts as a cultural expression of their communities.
- To become one of the distinguished online communities of the Art & Culture's talented writers
- To focus on interaction as opposed to telling a one-sided story which will open the door to different traditions to present themselves
- To form an intra-Muslim dialogue as the participants' writings will help the readers to know the special traditions of Muslim communities.

Competition's Guidelines:

The Blog Theme:

You are invited to blog on the theme of "Ramadan Means to Me" and write in one of the following three topics:

- 1- In your opinion, what does the value of this month stand for?
- 2- How do you celebrate Ramadan in your culture?
- 3- In your view, what are the bad habits some Muslims practice in Ramadan?

Rules:

1. Blog post should be on the theme of "Ramadan Means to Me"
2. All entries should be in English
3. Entries should be no longer than 700 words, not less than 500 words.
4. Abusive and irrelevant content will not be accepted
5. Personal photos are optional to be sent along with the post
6. Participants are requested to submit their posts to bloggingramadan At iolteam Dot com along with a short profile that includes their background, study field, interests, and country of origin.

Lomba Blog Ramadhan

Written by yons achmad
Tuesday, 11 August 2009 04:38 -

Deadline:

All entries should be submitted to bloggingramadan At iolteam Dot com with "Ramadan Competition" in the subject field no later than September 5, 2009.

Winner's Announcement:

The three winners will be announced after the occasion of `Eid-Al-Fitr.

Judges:

A group of A & C's professional writers and well-known bloggers will constitute the judge panel.

Prizes:

1. The three prizewinners will receive a certificate from IslamOnline.net as being "IOL bloggers of the year". Their entries will be featured through a special column on Art & Culture Page to set a model. They will be welcomed to join Art & Culture's Blog team and to submit future writings.
- 2- The entries of the 10 runners-up will be selected and their names will be published on Art & Culture Blog with short profile for each writer.

for further information you go to www.islamonline.net